

So I've been thinking about this for a while and wondering if we can make our bit of the road or the whole road a little oasis of pit stops for pollinators and wildlife?....

I am slowly turning our front garden into a happier place for beasties and would like the verge outside our house to be happier too?

Thoughts guys?

